

I'm Chris Morley, dad to two children at The Snaith School. I've spent my career in IT and now lead teams who build and support the technology people rely on every day. That work has taught me the value of clear thinking, good communication, and steady decision making.

As a governor, I want to use my skills to support the school in a practical, down-to-earth way, ensuring every child has the best possible experience both in and out of the classroom. I'm committed to offering constructive challenge that helps the school move forward, and I aim to use my experience with technology to help the school make safe, informed decisions that benefit pupils and staff as technology plays an ever-growing role in our lives.
