

Lynne Williamson

My name is Lynne Williamson, I have two children who both attended The Snaith school. One is now at University and the other at Pontefract College. I am the headteacher of a large primary school in Wakefield and I have a special interest in Special Educational Needs and safeguarding. Alongside this, I am trained as a Senior Designated Mental Health Lead and I have undertaken training in Trauma Informed Practice in schools. I feel strongly that happy children make the most progress and this certainly applied to my children when they attended The Snaith School. I also believe that happy staff make great teachers and as such, I am interested in the wellbeing of staff in schools. I have been a governor for over 20 years and enjoy the role of offering professional support and challenge to school.
